ANNEMARIE SLOBBE

Annemarie Slobbe explores the forces of nature that set everything in motion and to which we as humans are bound. Her paintings, scratchboards and films depict the passage of time. Compositions evolve gradually, as she aims to accept change instead of controlling it. Hypnotic patterns emerge along the edges of the canvas. Going inward, the temporary appearance of form is destroyed. Here only our awareness of the void remains; a formless silence, sleeping in the darkness.

For 24 hours, a white cube gallery with unadorned white walls is transformed into a cozy living room. In this experimental exhibition by Annemarie Slobbe, Adriaan Rees, Shlomo Benami and Zoë d'Hont, the usual way in which art is exhibited is reconsidered. In addition to various performances, there is room for dialogue and you can have a bite to eat. The exhibition – which is accessible 24/7 – aims to reduce the gap between visitors and works of art.
