

ANAT RATZABI

The core of my work is rooted in experiences with multiculturalism and the challenges of navigating shifting cultural frameworks. Anat is a highly regarded contemporary artist based in The Hague, the Netherlands, known for her acclaimed work that spans various mediums and explores complex themes. She has a rich history of exhibitions in both the Netherlands and other European countries, as well as internationally in places like India, New York, Miami, Buenos Aires and Riyadh, Saudi Arabia. Anat's artistic practice is characterized by its diversity and authenticity. She employs a wide range of techniques and mediums, including video art, installations, Theater and the creation of surrealistic bronze and stone sculptures. Her work encompasses a wide spectrum of styles, from ethnic patterns to abstractism, showcasing her versatility as an artist. The core of Anat's work is deeply rooted in her experiences with multiculturalism and the challenges of navigating shifting cultural frameworks. Her art seeks to bridge the gap between opposing elements, such as the secular and the sacred, the traditional and the contemporary, Order and chaos. This thematic exploration aims to address the conflicts and contrasts that arise from different belief systems and cultural backgrounds, with a focus on identifying the essence of these separate entities. In her artist statement, Anat discusses the concept of cultural transformations and the pull towards tradition when faced with extreme shifts in society. She uses this idea as a canvas to depict the ever-changing nature of existence over time, highlighting the delicate balance between the primitive and the sublime. This exploration serves as a commentary on the intricate conflicts between various beliefs and cultures and seeks to uncover the underlying essence of each distinct entity. Anat's work has garnered significant attention in the art world and has been featured in books and various media outlets. Her ability to address complex themes and seamlessly integrate a wide range of artistic techniques makes her a notable figure in the contemporary art scene.

The new Holocaust monument "Lest they be forgotten" was conceived and realized by The Hague sculptor Anat Ratzabi, who has used existing and new symbolism to create a place at the heart of The Hague city center for reflection and contemplation. The commission was given on behalf of the Jewish Monument Foundation in cooperation with the Hague municipality and under courtesy of the mayor of the Hague.
