STEFANO CATTANI

Research-based visual and performance artist.

Stefano Cattani (he/she) is a research-based visual and performance artist. His work, rooted in queerness, investigates the intersection of body, identity and space. His practice questions the hierarchical structure of contemporary Western society, departing from personal experiences and observation, looking for relationality in conversations and critical theory. His work aim to unveil the hegemony and power dynamics of the structure object of his interest, employing storytelling through movement, spoken words, sound, photography and video, materialising in performances, stills and moving images, texts and installations.
